Times of Your Life

Good morning yesterday.
You wake up, and time has slipped away.
And suddenly it's hard to find

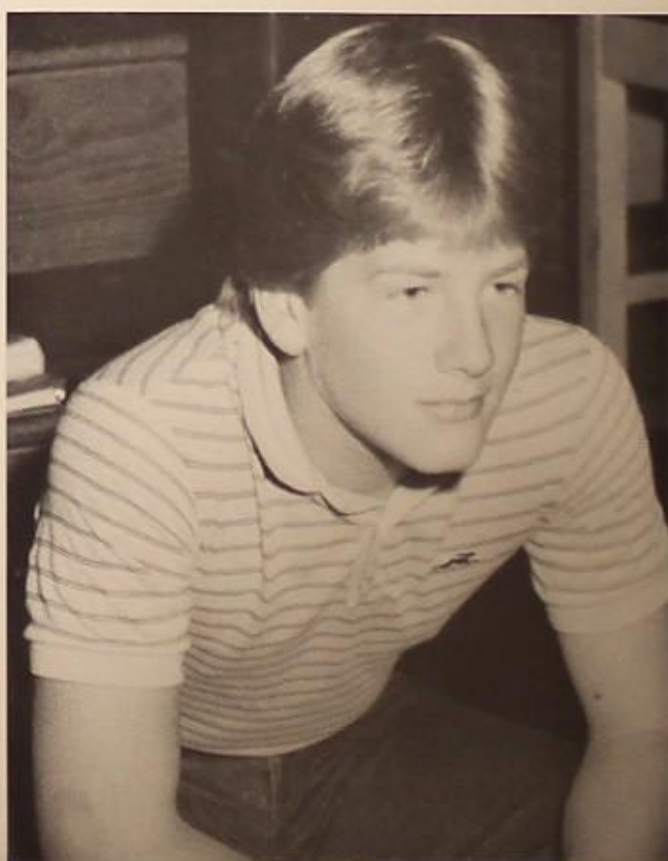

The memories you left behind.

Remember, the Times of Your Life.

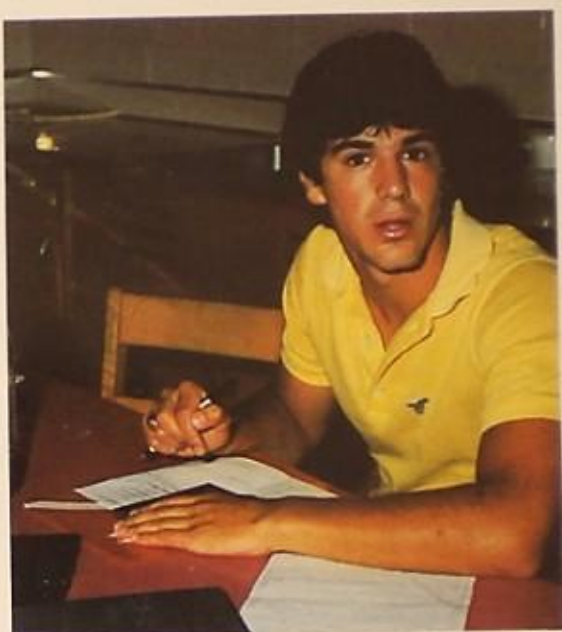

The laughter and the tears,

The shadow of misty yesteryears,

The good times and the bad you've seen

And all the others in between —

Remember, the Times of Your Life.

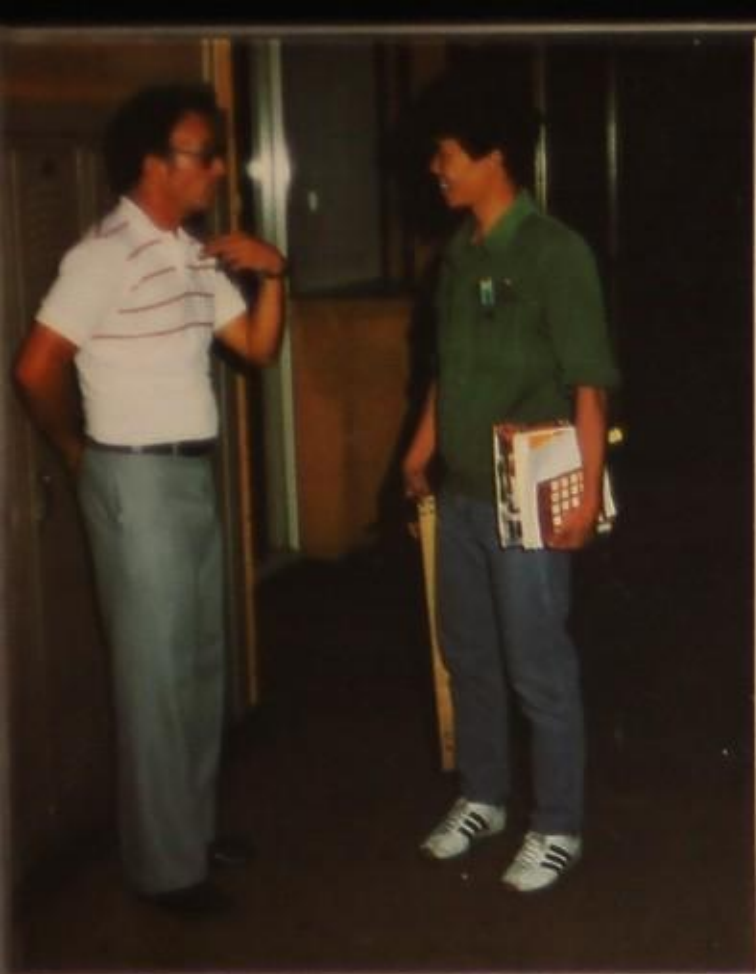

Reach out for the joy and the sorrow.

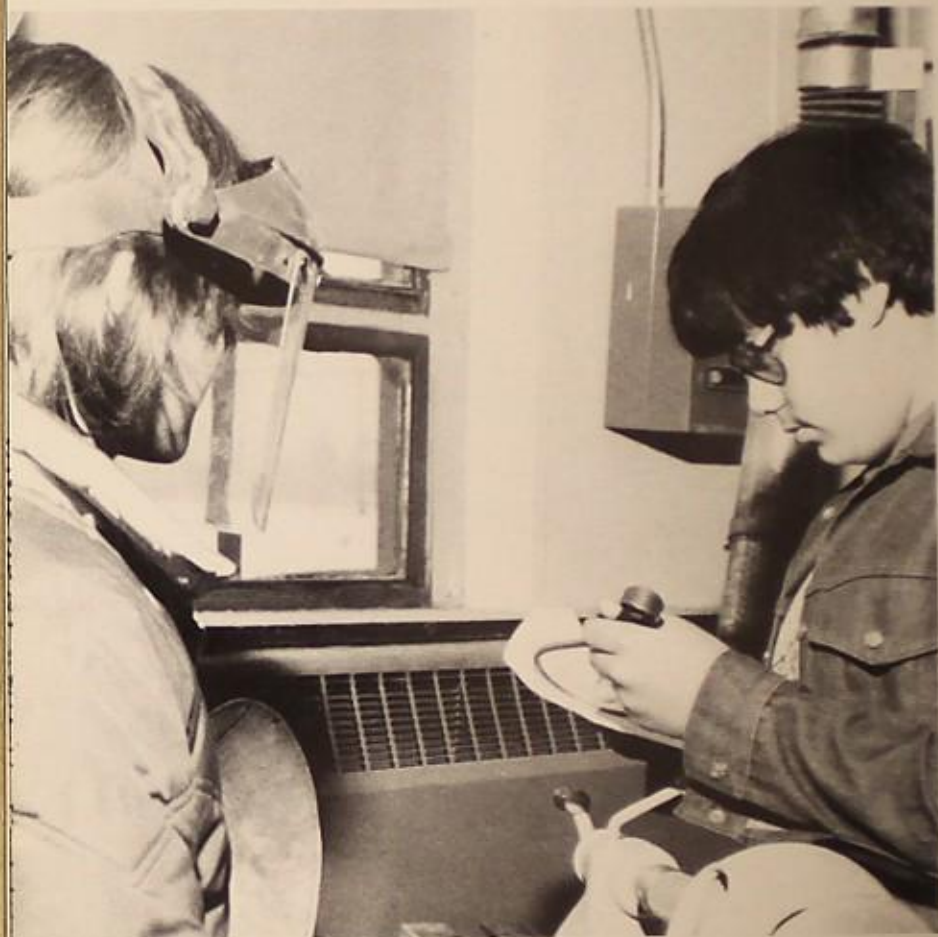

Put them away in your mind.

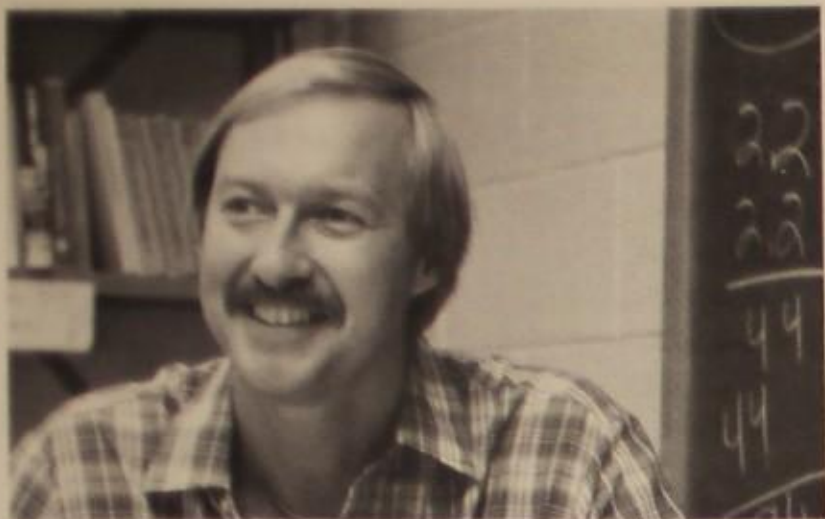

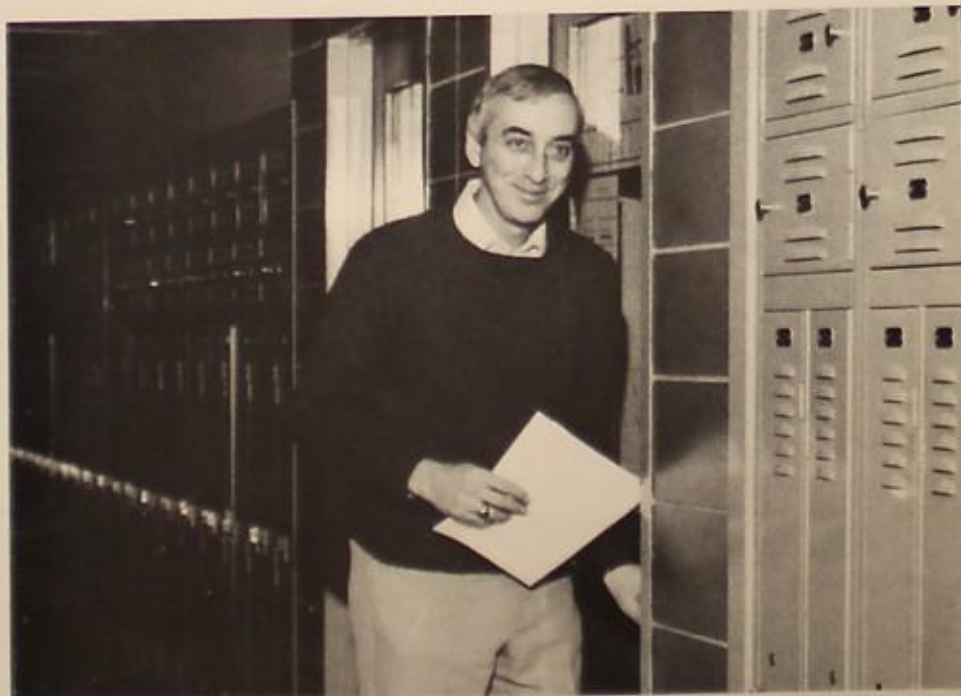

For memories are time that you borrow,

To spend when you get to tomorrow.

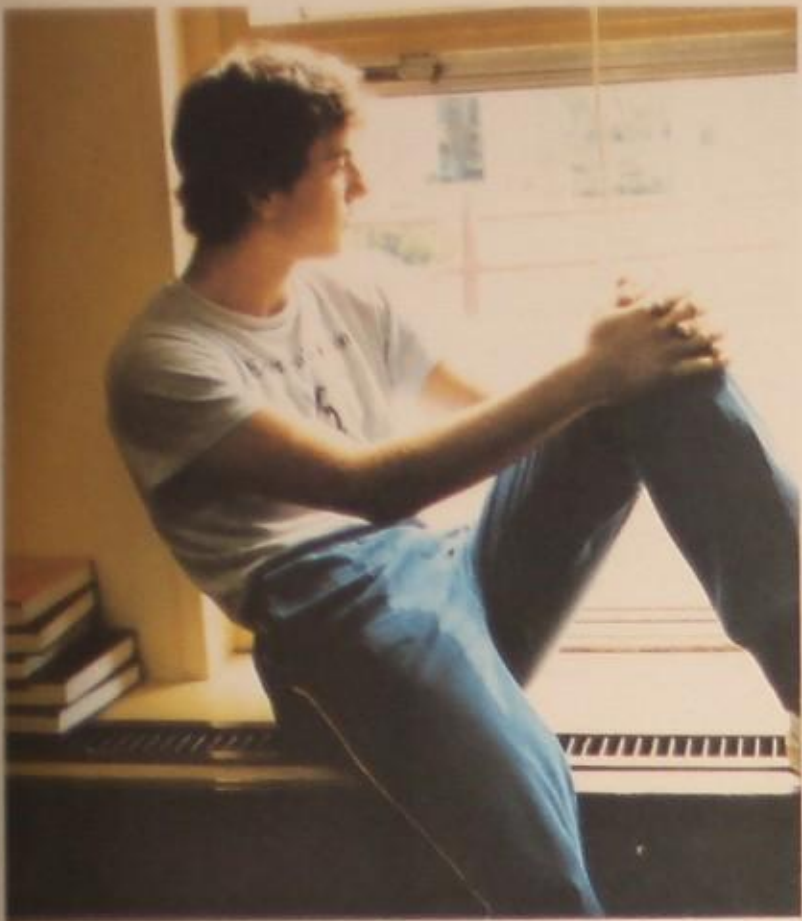

Here comes the setting sun.

The seasons are passing one by one.

*So gather moments while you may.
Collect the dreams you dream today.
Remember, will you remember,*

Principal's Message

Have you ever been stuck in a rush hour traffic jam? I'll bet you felt overwhelmed by numbers. I'm only one car among all the cars on the highway. What can I do? I'm only one human being among all the human beings on earth. What can I do?

It's easy to feel that way. When we perceive ourselves as not mattering in the scheme of things, it is easy to think, "Why bother? It doesn't matter anyhow."

Of course, we all feel that way once in a while — we wouldn't be human if we didn't. It is more important that we recognize this feeling for what it is: a setback when we are momentarily overwhelmed by the pressures of the day-to-day world.

We are important and what we do does make a difference. If we know that what we do will have an effect tomorrow and tomorrow, then we will do our best at all times.

If we believe this, then we won't try to be interesting, we will be interested. We won't expect to be pleased, we will be pleasing. We won't ask to be helped, we will be helpful. That will make all the difference.

Knowing yourself; believing that what you do is important, and striving to do what you can when you can, make this world a better place for everyone in it.

Imagine a world filled with people who know that what they do will make a difference and who strive consciously to make that difference a positive one for everyone.

That world is a reality within your grasp. You do make a difference and that difference is you. Grab hold of tomorrow and use what you have learned in the past.

Luck, success and happiness to the fantastic class of 1984!

Memoriams

Robert E. Gagliano

February 8, 1967 - July 11, 1983

There is no way we could possibly convey all our feelings and emotions for Rob in writing. No word in any dictionary could come close to describing our love for Rob, or the sorrow we feel for him. He will never be forgotten, we will remember him forever.

We still feel him around us. But when we experience these feelings, we want so painfully to see him among us once again. This is probably the most difficult thing for us to cope with—to miss and feel him with so much passion, and then to realize he's not physically with us.

He has instilled part of himself in all of his survivors, especially in his closest friends. Though his departure occurred some time ago, we still feel the pain and anguish from it.

However, we find solace knowing Rob is happy and at peace and will always watch over and pray for us.

Rob, we know your spirit is here with us, and we want you to know we love and miss you.

Chris Leupold
Todd Glickman

Jeffrey E. Harding

March 30, 1967 - August 13, 1983

Though the time you spent with us was short, we grew to know and care for you very much. We miss you with all of our hearts and we will never forget you.

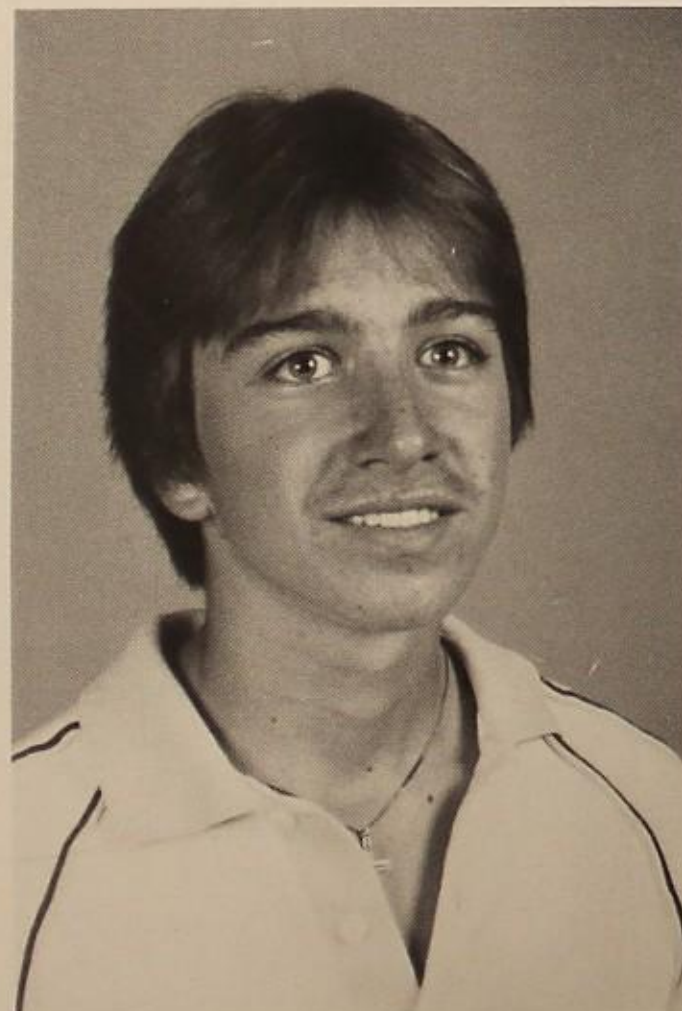

There will always be that empty space that you once filled. We will never forget the good times that we shared. As the years go by the memories will remain.

The pain may fade but our love for you will never die. We all have to realize that you are in a better place now and we should be happy for you instead of sad.

It is really hard because we can't help to remember all of the good times we shared with you and now the good times are over.

Thanks for everything. We'll never forget you.

Your friend forever,
John Brown

At long last, the time has finally come for us to go and find our destinies. The time when I must leave this land of beautiful girls and strawberry popsicles known as Thailand and my friends must leave the prestigious institution of learning known as G.C.H.S. has come, and all to quickly, shall pass away.

Yet even in this fast paced world of uncertainties the lessons we have learned and the friends we have made during the past year and the ones before it can be counted on for all that we need. For as Thailand has taught me, the worst type of poverty in this world is not lack of money, but lack of wisdom and especially, lack of friends.

I would like to take this opportunity to wish the Class of '84 the best of luck. I hope the future turns out just as everyone dreams it will and that the spirit that somehow kept us all together will remain with everyone.

In parting, I would like to leave one thought to this years Senior class and to the many that will follow it. It's a real big world out there, be sure that you don't miss it.

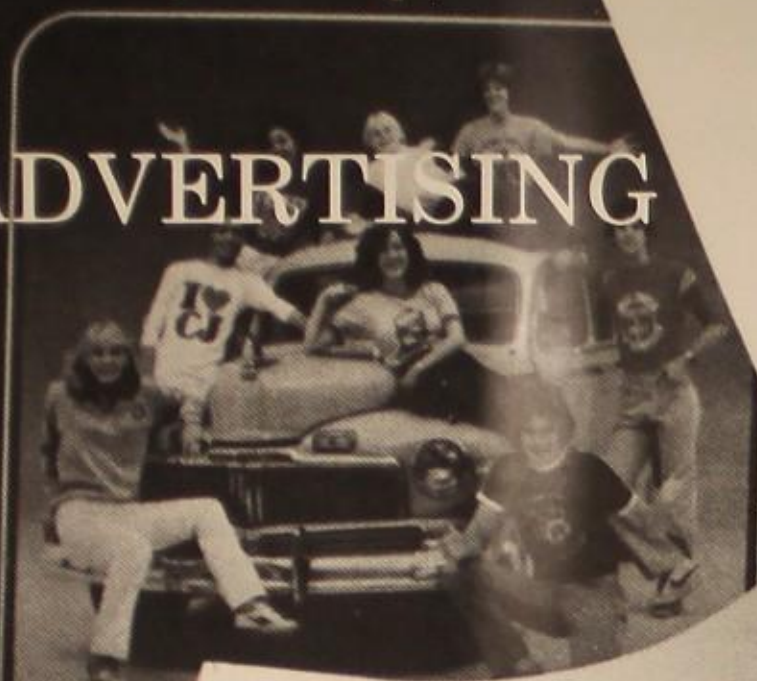

Carl Renshaw
